DETAILED ACTION

1. The restriction requirement is withdrawn in view of applicant's arguments in the paper filed 16 October 2002.
2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Korsgaard (WO 85/00188) in view of Kunzel (WO 96/33321).

Korsgaard teaches teaches a three layer vapor control laminate with perforations that functions by condensation of water (abstract). Kunzel teaches the use a vapor barrier whose transmission varies with relative humidity (abstract). The instant invention claims a three layer vapor barrier that has a humidity variable transmission. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have used a variable transmission layer as part of laminate of Korsgaard in order to have a broader range of transmission abilities because of the teachings of Kunzel.
